I want to perform a query like this select A.email from posts inner join authors A on (A.id = posts.author_id) where posts.id = 1 A.email is a non-unique, non-nullable FK, and if we don't know anything about the author, I'd like to default to finding all authors. What is the proper way to implement this query? A: In Django 1.6 you can use lookup join, from docs: Note that lookup join queries are a subset of full join queries. A lookup join query can only reference the columns of a relation on the left side of the join; it cannot reference the columns of a relation on the right side of the join. This is because the left side of a lookup join
